

Song of Myself Summary

The poem "song of myself" has composed by walt whitman the most individualistic literary figure that America has produced he tells about himself in this poem. He tell himself every atom of his soul but good belongs to his soul. He always assume everything which is right. He wanders in the support of his pain which gives him pain as a spike came and touch the skin. He watever say, says that from his heart he says that everyone of this world come one by one. He always keep feelings or thoughts in mind either good or bad. He is ready at every danger in his life. Hie accept that life is not a bed for roses. It is full of difficulties and also happiness. It's a finest gift by given by God. Here there are too many people who fight for the religion, religious festival. That's not should be like this everyone should think that there is nothing in life. So always be happy and try to make other happy.
